The Rocky Mountain News has a history of bringing you the best Nuggets coverage. We go way back to the days of the American Basketball Association, when Denver hit the court with the old red, white and blue basketballs.

A lot has changed since then. Including the team's name, from Rockets to Nuggets, and then the switch from ABA to NBA. And through it all, our authoritative coverage has remained the same.

Because we pride ourselves on knowing everything about the Nuggets, and sharing it with you. With Dave Krieger's tenacious, never-miss-a-shot reporting. The wit and insight of Bob Kravitz. The personal fan's viewpoint you get in Mark Wolf's columns. And the special perspective found only in Drew Litton's sports cartoons.

To really know the Nuggets, get to know the News. We're one team that will never drop the ball.

PETER C.B. BYNOE

Owner

For the past three years, Peter C.B. Bynoe has dedicated his life to professional sports. In his prior life, Bynoe focused his energies on the real estate development sector. Working through the firm he founded in 1982, Telemat Ltd., Bynoe structured major development deals in Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles and Oakland and provided legal and commercial brokerage services to a wide range of clients in Chicago. Over a six-year period, Telemat Ltd., developed an enviable reputation for its innovative urban revitalization projects.

This private/public sector experience led to the Mayor of Chicago and Governor of Illinois asking Bynoe to undertake his most exciting real estate project to date, the construction of the new Comiskey Park for the Chicago White Sox. Bynoe and his team at the Illinois Sports Facilities Authority (ISFA) began this venture on March 1, 1988 and will open the new facility for the 1991 Major League Baseball Season. The $250 million dollar project will be completed by the end of 1991.

This project was the critical turning point in Bynoe's professional career. During the intense negotiations between ISFA and the Chicago White Sox, he got the sports franchise bug. With the assistance of friends and partners such as Bert Lee, Jerry Wexler and Ed Ross, he was able to make his dream of NBA franchise ownership come true even before completing the stadium. Bynoe has turned the management of Telemat Ltd. over to his most important partner, wife Linda Bynoe, and spends all of his time on the new stadium and his basketball venture.

Despite sports, Bynoe's commitment to public service continues. He is the chairman of the Chicago Landmarks Commission and vice chairman of the Goodman Theatre. He is the chairman of the Chicago Historical Society's Architectural Alliance and serves on the Boards of the Boys and Girls Clubs of Chicago, the Chicago Architectural Foundation, and Cinema Chicago. Bynoe looks forward to similar community involvement in Denver.

Bynoe and his wife Linda are unabashed lovers of tennis and enthusiastic skiers. They began skiing together in Vail, Colorado and have owned a home in the picturesque mountain town of Telluride since 1987.

Bynoe is excited about the challenges that he faces as an owner of the Denver Nuggets. He respects the winning tradition that the team has built over the last ten years and looks forward to building on that tradition in the front office as well as on the court. Most importantly, He is obsessed with bringing an NBA Championship to the city of Denver. If, by achieving the goal of an NBA Championship, Bynoe sets a standard of excellence and performance and becomes a role model for young people, he will be very proud.

BERTRAM M. LEE
Owner

For Bertram M. Lee, the fourth time was the charm.

After three spirited attempts to purchase a professional sports franchise, the energetic and persistent Lee finally turned a long-time dream into a diamond-bright reality when became a major partner in purchasing the Denver Nuggets.

After noting that he and Bynoe "are here because we view Denver as a great city and because Colorado is a great state in which to do business," Lee served notice that "our management philosophy will also encourage the involvement of the Nuggets organization and personnel in the life of the community." Lee also emphasized that "we want to make the fans proud so that the Nuggets organization will continue to grow and flourish in the greater Denver community."

Lee was just as forthright when addressing questions about minority ownership. Although he believes that the issue of black ownerships will soon become secondary to the fortunes of the Nuggets, he is aware of the burdens he and Bynoe will bear in becoming the first minority owners in professional sports.

"We are mindful of what this event means," he said to a packed press conference. "It isn't an issue we are down playing or trying to play up. We will probably be looked at more closely in a way in which in other circumstances we probably would not."

Given the 50-year-old Lee's impressive track record in business, the future success of the Nuggets seems like a foregone conclusion.

Born and raised in Virginia, Lee attended college in North Carolina and graduate school in Chicago. Eventually, his career path led him to Boston. It was while serving as president of WNEV-TV, the CBS affiliate, that Lee first met a promising Harvard graduate student named Peter C.B. Bynoe. The friendship that was soon forged became the basis for a successful business partnership.

During his steady rise through the hierarchies of both the financial and communications industry Lee's business acumen fortified numerous enterprises. Among his current business affiliations are: chairman and president of BML Associates, Inc., a holding company; chairman and treasure of Albimar Management, Inc., a communications firm; president KELLEE Communications Group, Inc., a pay telephone company; chairman of Boston Bank of Commerce, a commercial bank; and partner in Columbia Plaza Association, a real estate development company.

Part of Lee's business success can be linked to his gift for oratory. A much sought after speaker, he has delivered lectures at such prestigious institutions as the Harvard University School of Business, the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Business, Cornell University, M.I.T. and the University of Chicago School of Business.

Lee's community-service portfolio is no less impressive. Among those organizations to which he has generously donated his time and expertise are the Jackie Robinson Foundation, the Democratic National Committee Finance Council, the National Association for Sickle Cell Disease and the Boston Public Library Partnership.

Lee is a gifted amateur tennis player. Given his prowess on the court and in the boardroom, it seemed only natural for him to pursue a pro sports franchise. After negotiations for the Baltimore Orioles and the New England Patriots did not reach fruition, Lee came agonizingly close to landing the San Antonio Spurs in 1988. When the Nuggets became available, Lee and Bynoe waged their own version of a full-court press, eventually purchasing with COMSAT Video Enterprises the team from Sidney Shlenker.

Lee is married to Laura Murphy Lee and has two daughters and a son.

ROBERT J. WUSSLER
Owner

No stranger to success in the sports world, Robert J. Wussler is President and Chief Executive Officer of COMSAT Video Enterprises (CVE), a wholly owned subsidiary of the Communications Satellite Corporation and the second largest provider of in-room entertainment services to the lodging industry.

On October 21, 1989, Wussler, Chicago businessman Peter Bynoe and Sidney Shlenker announced CVE and the group headed by Bynoe and partner Bertram M. Lee had signed an agreement to purchase the Denver Nuggets. Under the terms of the agreement, CVE will own a majority interest in the team and Lee and Bynoe will be co-general partners.

Prior to joining CVE in September 1989, Wussler was Senior Executive Vice President of Turner Broadcasting System, Inc., a member of the TBS Board of Directors and a member of the Company's Executive Committee. He directed all sports and non-fiction programming and had oversight for the Company's international relations, ongoing international expansion and sports franchises.

Prior to joining TBS, Wussler spent an illustrious 21-year career at CBS, starting in the corporation's mailroom and eventually becoming President of two separate divisions of the company. Wussler joined CBS in 1957, sorting mail at CBS headquarters in New York. Within five weeks, he was named a productions assistant at CBS News, becoming an associate producer in 1959 and a producer in 1961. That year, he headed the production and news team covering President John F. Kennedy's first visit to Europe. Later, he was to be the on-site producer of numerous Presidential foreign trips, including Richard Nixon's 1972 visit to the People's Republic of China.

From 1962 to 1965, Wussler kept close to the national political scene as head of the CBS News Election Unit. From January 1965 through November 1972, he served CBS News as Executive Producer and Director of Special Events. During that time, he produced in excess of 500 hours of network programming and gained an international reputation for his work covering the U.S. space program, including the first manned landing on the moon on July 20, 1969. That event drew the largest television audience in history.

Wussler's contributions have left an indelible mark on electronic journalism. He was largely responsible for the expansion of satellite usage in news coverage beginning in 1962, the development of the minicam as a production tool in 1963, and the development of numbers audio and visual special effects.

In November 1972, Wussler was appointed Vice President and General Manager of WBBM-TV, the CBS owned and operated station in Chicago. In his 20 months there, WBBM went from fourth to second in overall ratings and subsequently became No. 1.

In July 1974, Wussler was named Vice President of the CBS Sports Department of the CBS Television Network. He was named President of the CBS Television Network in April 1976. When the CBS/Broadcast Group was reorganized in October 1977, he became the first President of the CBS Sports Division.

In April 1978, Wussler left CBS to form his own television production company, traveling internationally to develop a number of television and closed circuit programs in the areas of sports, variety and special events.

Throughout his career, Wussler has been active in numerous industry organizations. He has played a leading role in the growth of cable television and the development of cable-originated programming. He is currently serving his second term as Chairman of the Board of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences and serves a Secretary to the Board of Governors of the National Cable Television Association, the Board of Governors of the National Academy of Cable Programming and the Board of Advisors of the Cable Television Public Affairs Association. He is former Chairman of the NCTA National Satellite Network Committee and a former member of the Executive Committee of the Cable Advertising Bureau and the Advisory Board of the Writers Guild of America, East, Foundation and is the former Chairman of the NCTA Programming Conference. For his contributions to NCTA and for his outstanding achievements as a cable programmer, he was honored with the organization's Presidents Award in 1983 and Associates Award in 1986. Wussler has received four national Emmy Awards, four Awards for Cable Excellence (ACE) and two international sports award.

Wussler was born in Newark, New Jersey. He holds a communication arts degree from Seton Hall University. He also has received honorary Doctor of Laws degrees from Seton Hall and Emerson College. Wussler sits on the Board of Advisors of the University of Georgia's School of Journalism, the Board of Regents of Seton Hall and the National Advisory Committee of the University of Chicago's Benton Fellowship for Broadcast Journalism. He is former trustee of the International Boxing Hall of Fame in Las Vegas and of Marymount Manhattan College.

BERNIE BICKERSTAFF
General Manager

One of the most important aspects for the Nuggets in the rebuilding process was finding a man with the right background. Experience, leadership and credibility were the keys the Nuggets were looking for. In hiring Bernie Bickerstaff to be the club's General Manager, the Nuggets found the whole package they were looking for.

Success is nothing foreign to Bickerstaff. After becoming the Head Coach of the Seattle Supersonics before the 1985-86 season, Bickerstaff guided the Sonics to the Western Conference Finals following the 1986-87 season and earned NBA Coach of the Year honors after just his second year. In 1987, the New York Pro-Am Basketball Association awarded him as their "Sports Person of the Year." He also won the "Horace Mann Award for Leadership" from Antioch College in 1987.

With over 25 years of basketball experience on the professional and collegiate level, Bickerstaff brings a wealth of knowledge to the Nuggets. While a student at the University of San Diego, Bickerstaff played point guard for two seasons, 1964-65 and 1965-66.

At the conclusion of his playing career, he turned down an offer to play with the Harlem Globetrotters and remained at USD to begin his coaching career. In 1969, he became the head coach and during his four seasons at USD, his winning percentage was 53 percent.

The next step for Bickerstaff was the NBA. He joined K.C. Jones as an assistant coach with the Washington Bullets. He stayed in Washington with three different head coaches: Jones, Gene Shue and Dick Motta. Finally, after 12 years in the NBA, the Sonics hired him as their head coach.

In his five seasons with the Sonics, Bickerstaff led the team to the NBA Playoffs three times and won over 200 games. In his tenure as Seattle's head coach he earned the reputation as a great coach in a one-game, pressure situation as his organizing and preparing skills are among his strengths.

Now, Bickerstaff has climbed another step, taking over the General Manager's position with the Nuggets. He will be in charge of all player personnel decisions. In short, Nuggets ownership has entrusted him with rebuilding the Nuggets' basketball operations.

"I think this is the perfect opportunity and the perfect challenge," Bickerstaff said. "I think one of the strengths that I have is the ability to collectively work with a group of people and rebuild an organization."

Besides preparing for the NBA draft and working on improving his team's talent level, Bickerstaff finds the time to run an annual youth summer basketball camp. He and wife Eugenia have five children.

CARL SCHEER
President

On March 26, 1990, the Denver Nuggets ownership and Carl Scheer proved that indeed, you can come home, as Scheer accepted a position as President of the club. As President of the Nuggets, Scheer oversees the entire business side of the organization.

It was in Denver that Scheer built his reputation as one of the top executives in professional sports. Scheer came to Denver in 1974, when the Denver Rockets of the ABA were floundering and in jeopardy of going out of business. Scheer's first order of business was to give the club a facelift and steer the franchise toward success. The Rockets received a new name, new colors, a new logo and in essence, a new life.

The new life included a new coach and a host of young players who transformed the reborn Denver Nuggets from a 37-47 laughingstock to a 65-19 juggernaut. For the turnaround, Scheer earned The Sporting News Executive of the Year award.

The success of the club was not limited to the basketball floor. The following year, Scheer managed to land one of the most sought-after college players ever, David Thompson. Scheer also managed a coup in landing Marvin "The Human Eraser" Webster in the same year.

As the Nuggets' success continued in the ABA, Scheer became one of the key figures in executing the ABA-NBA merger in 1976. Once the merger was complete, his young club made an immediate impact on the older league, winning the Midwest Division the first two years it was in the NBA and reaching the Western Conference Finals in 1978.

Another of Scheer's major accomplishments during his first tenure in Denver was securing local ownership for the club. Scheer brought together a group of 30 Denver business leaders to purchase the club from a group of San Diego businessmen. The move insured the team would remain in Denver. Although the group encountered some difficult times, Scheer managed to hold it together until Red McCombs bought the team in 1982.

During his tenure in Denver, the Nuggets led the NBA in attendance once and reached the playoffs in eight of ten seasons. Scheer also was largely responsible for putting on the 1976 ABA All-Star game which featured the first slam dunk competition, now a fixture in the NBA All-Star weekend.

In 1984, Scheer moved to Los Angeles to become the President and General Manager of the Los Angeles Clippers. He maintained his position with the Clippers until 1986, when he became the Commissioner of the Continental Basketball Association.

Under his leadership, the CBA placed emphasis on quality basketball. He played an integral role in developing a cooperative effort with the NBA to take in players involved in drug rehabilitation to provide them a second chance in staying in professional basketball.

On January 1, 1988, Scheer was named the first President and General Manager of the Charlotte Hornets. In his first season with the Hornets, the team managed 20 victories and led the NBA in attendance, averaging 23,172 fans per game.

Working for the Hornets was a return to North Carolina for Scheer as he spent four years as President and General Manager of the Carolina Cougars of the ABA in the early 1970's before moving to Denver. It was with Carolina in 1973 that Scheer earned his first Executive of the Year Award from The Sporting News as the Cougars set over 50 club records.

A native of Springfield, Mass., Scheer began his professional sports career as Administrative Assistant to then NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy in 1968 after six years as an attorney in a successful Greensboro, N.C., law firm.

DAN ISSEL

Assistant to the President

Sometimes, good things do not have to end as the Nuggets' organization proved when it brought the most popular player in its history, Dan Issel, back to Denver as Assistant to the President.

In 1985, Issel left basketball and Denver behind to move to Versailles, Kentucky and run his Courtland Farms horse racing business. Nicknamed "The Horse" during his playing career, racing horses were always one of Issel's passions. After retiring from an incredibly successful basketball career, he found that despite his love for the horse business, basketball was not something he could fully abandon. Issel spent a year doing color commentary for the University of Kentucky's basketball radio broadcasts and discovered he truly wanted to remain involved in the game. Examining his options, he decided to take the Nuggets up on a job offer and return to Denver, making basketball a full-time affair.

"I found I wanted to get back involved with basketball and I just could not do it to the extent I wanted to in Kentucky," Issel said.

In his position with the Nuggets, a big part of Issel's duties will be as the color analyst for Nuggets' telecasts. He will also take over coordination of the Nuggets' Executive Team (NET) Foundation, the Nuggets' non-profit organization which funds several charities. He will also be responsible for the Nuggets' player education and career enhancement programs which is aimed to prepare Nuggets' players for retirement from basketball.

Obviously, Issel will stay quite busy in his new post, but is should be nothing. During his playing career, Issel never failed to respond when duty called. In his 15-year pro career, he missed only 24 games.

While stomping and head-faking his way through those 15 years, Issel etched his name in pro basketball history. He scored 27,482 points in his ABA/NBA career and is behind only Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Wilt Chamberlain and Julius Erving on the All Time ABA/NBA scoring list. When he retired in 1985, he left as the Nuggets' All-Time leading scorer and is now second after Alex English passed him during the 1987-88 season.

Issel first established himself in basketball circles at the University of Kentucky where he set 23 school records while playing under legendary coach Adolph Rupp. A three-year starter for the Wildcats, he gained All-American as a senior, averaging 33.9 points per game.

When he turned pro, Issel opted to stay in Kentucky and play for the ABA's Kentucky Colonels, where he played for five seasons. Kentucky dealt Issel to the Baltimore Claws, a team that never played a game, and the Claws sold Issel to Denver on Oct. 8, 1975.

Issel, 40, and wife Cheri have two children, Sheridan and Scott.

JAMES E. ARMSTRONG

Chief Financial Officer

James E. Armstrong is the Chief Financial Officer of the Denver Nuggets. Armstrong is responsible for all financial activities of the Denver Nuggets Limited Partnership which include the management of all accounting, budgeting, planning, financial reporting, treasury, and financial analysis. Prior to joining the Nuggets he was a co-founder of a local CPA firm in 1973 and served as audit partner for 17 years.

Armstrong is and has been involved in the civic and professional business community over the past twenty years. In 1982, he was appointed by the Governor of Colorado to serve on the State Board of Accountancy which is the sole licensing authority for Certified Public Accountants in the State. He served as president of that board for two years and in 1984 was reappointed by the newly elected governor. Armstrong served for three years as chairman of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants Minority Recruitment and Equal Opportunity Committee. He has served or chaired on various community and civic organizations as Treasurer or Chairman, which includes the Leadership Denver Association, Urban League of Metropolitan Denver, Mile Hi Council for Girl Scouts, among others.

Armstrong received his Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from the University of Denver. He has achieved numerous certifications in the following years from the City University of New York in statistical sampling and Southern Methodist University for strategic planning.

Armstrong has visited and/or worked in Europe, Asia and the Caribbean. He and his wife, Stacia, have two children, Danielle and Michael who are both attending college. Armstrong is a biking and basketball enthusiast, and enjoys traveling and skiing with his wife in Colorado and Utah.

GLEN E. GRUNWALD

Vice President/General Counsel

Glen E. Grunwald is the General Counsel of the Denver Nuggets Limited Partnership. He has served in that position since February 1989. As General Counsel, Grunwald provides legal services to the entire Denver Nuggets organization.

Prior to joining the Nuggets, Grunwald worked for the law firm of Winston & Strawn in Chicago. There he served as legal counsel to Bertram Lee and Peter Bynoe during their acquisition of the Denver Nuggets. Grunwald's area of practice is corporate law and he has worked on a variety of matters involving mergers and acquisitions, asset-based lending and venture capital.

Grunwald obtained his Bachelor of Science degree, with distinction, from Indiana University in 1980. While at Indiana, he was a member of the varsity basketball team and served as captain of the 1981 NCAA Championship team. He attended law school at Northwestern University, receiving his Juris Doctor degree in 1984. Grunwald is a member of the Bar of the State of Illinois and has applied for reciprocity to the Bar of the State of Colorado. Grunwald also earned a Masters of Business Administration degree from Indiana University in 1986 with concentration in Finance.

Grunwald was a fifth round draft choice of the Boston Celtics in the 1981 NBA draft. He and his wife Tamara reside in the lower downtown section of Denver.

ROBERT V. TASSIE

Vice President of Marketing

A common bond among successful organizations is having strong management and leadership. Robert V. Tassie, Vice President, provides the Denver Nuggets with just that.

A graduate of St. John's University in New York, Tassie also studied at the New School for Social Research and the Foreign Service Institute in Washington, D.C.

Before joining the Nuggets, Tassie served as Vice President of Communications for the CBS Television Network and was responsible for the image development of CBS Sports. This included promotion, advertising and marketing for all aspects of CBS Sports.

Tassie joined CBS in 1976 as an Account Executive of Network Sales. CBS elevated him to Vice President of Sports Sales in 1979 where he was responsible for forecasting, sales and marketing in the one hundred, fifty-three million advertising marketplace.

A life member of the International Society of Television Arts and Sciences, Tassie is also a board member of the Arizona Sickle Cell Committee. He has two sons, James and Jonathan.

DON JOHNSON

Vice President/Sales and Operations

On an aggressive career track since joining the organization in May of 1979, Don Johnson has moved from account executive to his current Vice President position and part of the club's senior management team.

As Vice President of Sales and Operations, Johnson is responsible for directing the ticketing and operations staffs in the organization. Current areas of responsibility include creation and implementation of all ticket sales campaigns, sales staff, ticket office and our game operations area.

Johnson brings to our senior management team a tremendous amount of special event management experience. He has served as the point person for marketing and operations of Arena Football, Olympic Wrestling, Volleyball and Basketball, MISL Soccer, tennis exhibitions and concert promotion. For the past five years, Johnson has overseen the game operations of the NBA All-Star Weekend activities for the league.

Before joining the Nuggets, Johnson received his Bachelor of Arts Degree from Colorado State University, majoring in both Marketing and Real Estate. While attending CSU, Johnson was a place kicker for the Ram football team.

AL ALBERT
TV Play-By-Play

One of the most popular individuals in the Nuggets organization, Al Albert's expert work behind the microphone as the Nuggets' television play-by-play man is often as exciting as the game he describes.

The Nuggets and Albert go back to the club's American Basketball Association days. Albert came to Denver in 1975 and made an immediate impact on the sports community with his creative descriptions of Nuggets action on radio. Albert remained in Denver from 1975 to 1981, broadcasting Nuggets' games on both radio and television. He was also a sports anchor and reporter for KOA-TV.

In 1981, Albert left Denver for New York where he was a sports anchor and reporter for WNBC-TV and also worked for the USA Network, calling play-by-play of USA's weekly NBA game. He returned to his duties of calling play-by-play for the Nuggets on television from 1984 until 1988.

In 1988, Albert returned again to New York where he was a sports anchor for WWOR-TV and play-by-play man for the New Jersey Devils of the National Hockey League. After his one year hiatus from the Nuggets, he returned to Denver before the 1989-90 season.

Before he came to the Nuggets in 1975, Albert was the radio and television voice of the ABA's New York Nets. Albert, who was born in Brooklyn, is a graduate of Ohio University. At OU, he was the goalie of both the varsity hockey and lacrosse teams. After a military commitment, Albert became the No. 1 goaltender for the Toledo Blades of the International Hockey League. An ankle injury quickly ended his hockey career after one season, but he remained in Toledo for two years and became the radio voice of the Blades.

Always on the go, Albert is still active with the USA Network, calling boxing matches and a variety of other sports. He comes from a sports broadcasting family as both brothers, Steve and Marv, are top caliber sportscasters as well.

Albert has one daughter, Casey, and resides in Denver when he is not in the center of the action.

LOU PERSONETT
Television Producer and Director

Tying together all the elements of a polished television broadcast is the responsibility that falls on the shoulders of Nuggets' Producer/Director Lou Personett. He is also in charge of all the Nuggets' video related projects.

Working closely with Al Albert and Dan Issel to produce a first rate NBA telecast, he also coordinates the crews and remote television trucks. Working with his counterparts through the NBA, he is also responsible for providing remote facilities to teams when they visit Denver.

Since the Nuggets took their TV production in house, Personett has provided the experience to guide the production. He has garnered three Emmy nominations and has won the Best Director Emmy once. He has also produced and directed games for ESPN, Raycom Sports, Prime Sports Network, other NBA teams, as well as directing major league baseball games, MISL soccer games, NHL hockey games and regional major college football.

On the civic side, Personett played a major role in Denver hosting the 1990 NCAA Final Four by producing a video presentation to the site selection committee. For his efforts, he was named Convention Services Person of the Year. He has also produced videos to the owners of major league baseball.

After attending Chaffey Junior College in Southern California, he served a stint in the U.S. Army which included one year in Vietnam as a radio operator and broadcast specialist. He began his television career after leaving the army in 1969.

Born and raised in Los Angeles, California, Personett resides in southeast Denver with wife Sheryl. He has a son, Erin, and a daughter, Veronica.

Bringing you the game... is our game!

From the court to the locker room . . .

don't miss a minute of action.

JEFF KINGERY
Radio Play-by-play

Jeff Kingery begins his tenth season as the "Voice of the Nuggets" on KOA Radio. With extensive experience in the Denver sports community, Kingery brings his knowledge and extensive experience covering the Nuggets to the 1990-91 season.

A 1973 graduate of San Francisco State University, Kingery was the Sports Director and on air personality for a KMJ-TV in Fresno, California, before traveling to Denver to join KOA.

With nine seasons following the Nuggets around the country, certain moments and players have stuck out in his mind.

"One of the best moments was beating the Lakers in Game Two of the Western Conference finals at the Forum in 1985. That tied the series at a game a piece and you couldn't help but think of the finals.

"Fat Lever is one of my favorites. He could do so many things so well, and in terms of mental toughness, nobody matched him. Another personal favorite was Dan Issel because you knew he showed up to play every night."

Concerning the 1990-91 Nuggets, "I'm really excited about the upcoming season. There have been lot of changes, it's almost a new team from last year, and I think that has created a lot of excitement in itself. (Head Coach Paul) Westhead's system is an excellent game for the fans and will bring enthusiasm back to the Nuggets."

Kingery is an active volunteer at the Denver Dumb Friends League and works with the Nuggets and area schools on drug awareness programs. He is an avid golfer and helped anchor KOA Radio's coverage from the PGA "International" golf tournament Castle Rock, CO.

He and his wife Meryl live in Englewood

DAVE LOGAN
Radio Color Analyst

Dave Logan begins his first season as the color commentator for the Nuggets on KOA Radio for 1990-91. Logan is no stranger to the broadcast booth and will be an excellent teammate to veteran Nuggets play-by-play man Jeff Kingery.

Logan, a 1972 graduate of Wheat Ridge high school, was one of the state's best all-around athletes as he received All-American honors in baseball and football while at Wheat Ridge High.

After his brilliant high school career, he went on to attended the University of Colorado where he was a four year letterman in football and a three year letter winner in basketball. His athletic fortunes continued as he was drafted by the NFL's Cleveland Browns, the NBA's Kansas City Kings, and MLB's Cincinnati Reds.

Following graduation from CU, Logan pursued a career in the NFL with the Cleveland Browns. Logan had an outstanding career with the Browns, playing for seven seasons. Logan finished his career with the Denver Broncos, playing one season in 1984.

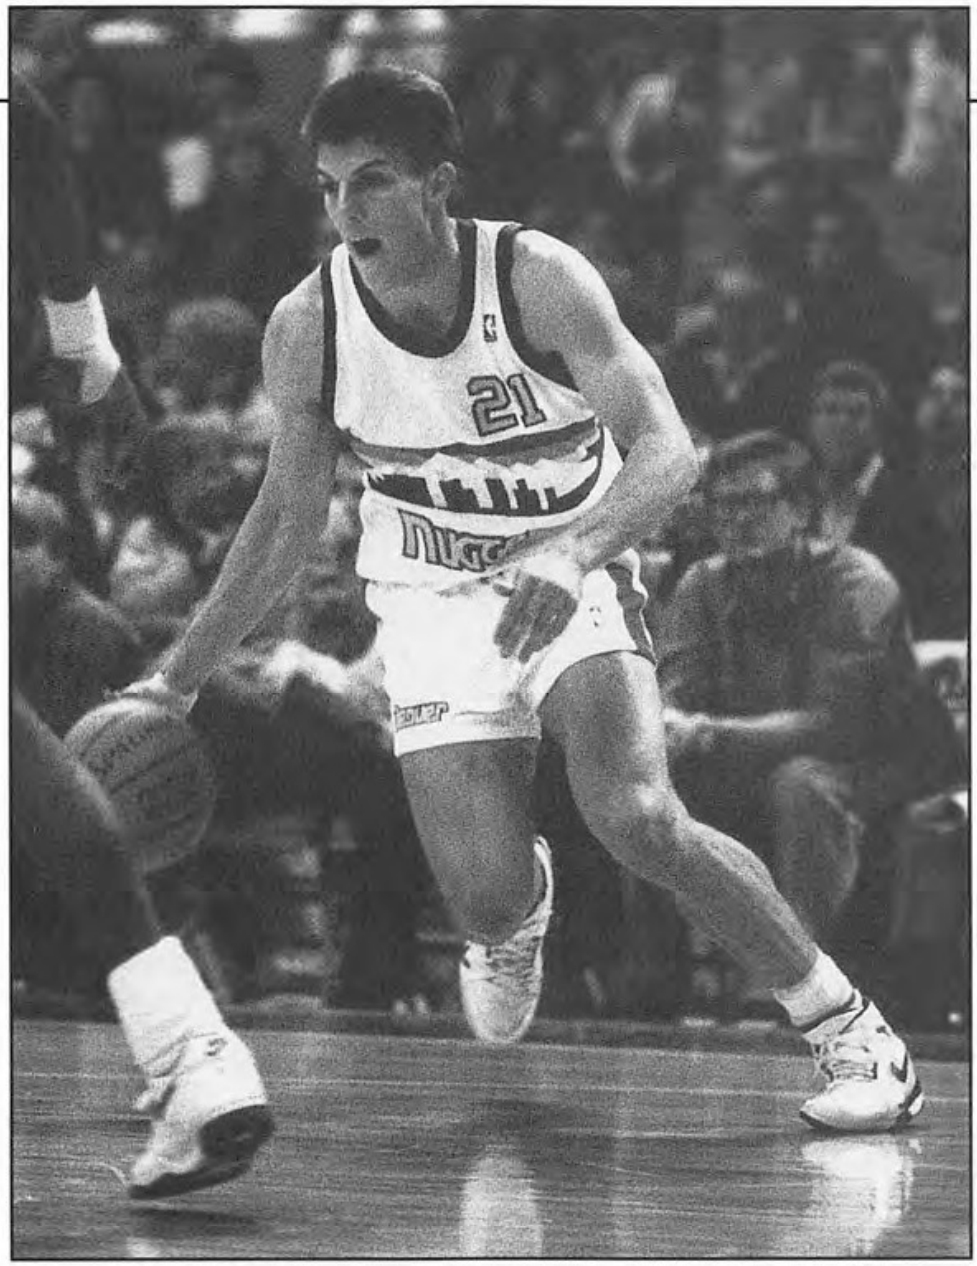
MEET THE TEAM



Denver Nuggets

PAUL WESTHEAD
Head Coach

When the Denver Nuggets introduced Paul Westhead, the fourth head coach in Denver's NBA history on September 7, 1990, he summed up the future of the club in one quick statement.

"You haven't seen anything yet. We're going to knock their socks off." Westhead was referring to his style of coaching and his teams', whether collegiate or professional, for their fast paced style of play and ability to run the court. As the new commander of the Nuggets, he becomes the ninth head coach in Denver's franchise history and begins work with his third NBA team.

Westhead began his NBA coaching career as an assistant with the Los Angeles Lakers, working with his close friend and newly-appointed Laker head coach, Jack McKinney, for the 1979-80 season. Just 14 games into the season, McKinney was injured in a bicycle accident and was unable to complete the campaign. Westhead, who was named the interim head coach, inherited a 10-4 record and eventually guided the Lakers to the NBA Championship in a six game series with the Philadelphia 76ers. The "interim" was dropped from his title prior to the 1980-81 season and Westhead responded by guiding the Lakers to the Pacific Division Championship with a 54-28 record. He posted a record of 7-4 through the first 11 games of the 1981-82 season for Los Angeles before moving on to the Chicago Bulls as head coach for the 1982-83 campaign. In four seasons in the NBA, Westhead compiled a 139-104 (.572) mark with one World Championship.

Westhead began his coaching career at Philadelphia's LaSalle College in 1970. He led the Explorers to 20 wins and an NIT berth in his first season. During the 1974-75 season, he was selected NCAA District II Coach of the Year after leading LaSalle to a 22-7 record, the East Coast Conference championship, and a top-10 national ranking. LaSalle also advanced to the NCAA Tournament in the 1977-78 season. During his nine seasons at LaSalle, he led the Explorers to an overall record of 142-105 (.575) and three post season appearances.

After nine seasons at LaSalle, Westhead's collegiate coaching career was not finished. After coaching the Chicago Bulls during the 1982-83 season he returned to the collegiate ranks, moving to the west coast to take over the Loyola Marymount University Lions program. Westhead's success continued with the Lions as he posted a 105-48 record in five seasons, took his team to four post season tournaments, three NCAA Tournament appearances, two WCC regular season championships, two WCC tournament championships and left the Lions with the highest winning percentage of any coach in the school's history. Under his guidance, the LMU basketball team earned national acclaim for its explosive offense that produced the two highest seasonal scoring averages, as well as the three highest scoring games, in NCAA history.

A native of Philadelphia, Westhead was a 1956 graduate of West Philadelphia Catholic High School. Following one year at Mt. Vernon Prep School, he moved on to St. Joseph's College where he played three seasons (1958-59 through 1960-61) under Jack Ramsey and earned his undergraduate degree in English. From their he traveled to Villanova University where he completed his master's degree. A respected scholar of Shakespearian literature, he is quite adept at reciting quotations from numerous literary works.

Westhead and his wife Cassie have four children: Monica, who was married in 1988; Patrice, who works for an advertising agency in Sacramento; Paul, Jr., a 1989 graduate of Fordham University; and Julie, a student at Palos Verdes High School.

JIM BOYLE
Assistant Coach

When Head Coach Paul Westhead began his search for an assistant coach, priorities were experience, ability and above all, a track record of winning. In his old friend Jim Boyle, he found everything he was looking for.

Boyle symbolized the winning tradition of St. Joseph's University as both a player and coach. As the SJU Head Coach from the 1981-82 season to the conclusion of the 1989-90 season, Boyle guided the Hawks to a 151-114 (.570) record. During his tenure at SJU, he led the Hawks to two NCAA Tournament appearances, in 1982 and 1986, and two NIT appearances, in 1984 and 1985. In 1986, the Atlantic 10 named Boyle its coach of the year for guiding the Hawks to a 26-6 record and a first round win in the NCAA Tournament.

A native of Philadelphia, Boyle attended SJU and was the co-captain of the basketball team as a senior during the 1963-64 season. He made one of the most memorable shots in SJU history, a last-second bucket that gave the Hawks a 58-57 win over Nate Thurmond and Bowling Green in the 1962 Quaker City Tournament.

He began his coaching career at Widener University in 1971. He returned to SJU for the 1973-74 season as an assistant and became the Hawks' head coach prior to the 1981-82 season.

MIKE EVANS
Assistant Coach

If ever a player personified the Nuggets' attitude, it was Mike Evans, now an assistant coach with the team. Evans was a scrappy player who often found himself without as much talent as his opponent, but with far more desire and heart.

A nine-year NBA veteran, Evans brings a wealth of experience to the Nuggets' coaching staff from a player's point of view. Imparting this experience and knowledge on the team's younger players will be one of his main duties.

After winning back-to-back Big 8 Player-of-the-Year Awards at Kansas State in 1977 and 1978, the Nuggets selected Evans in the first round of the 1978 NBA Draft. Before he played a game with the Nuggets, Denver traded him to Kansas City. After stints with San Antonio, Milwaukee and Cleveland, Evans finally signed with the Nuggets prior to the 1982-83 season.

The sharp-shooting Evans played six years in Denver. In both the 1984-85 and 1986-87 seasons, Evans averaged a career-high 10.1 points. He scored 3,642 points during his six years in Denver and is No. 14 on the club's all-time scoring list. He hit 217 three-pointers as a Nugget, the second highest career total in club history.

BOB "CHOPPER" TRAVAGLINI

Trainer/Traveling Secretary

He has healed, mended and coddled more than 100 basketball players. He is one of the "rocks" of the Nuggets organization. Players, coaches and managements come and go, but Chopper remains. He has been around since the Nuggets' first season in the NBA, 1976-77 and he swears he has seen practically every one of the Denver's 1,230 regular season and playoff NBA games.

Bob "Chopper" Travaglini is in his 15th season as trainer for the Denver Nuggets and he's a 21-year veteran of the often turbulent, seldom tranquil world of professional basketball.

Chopper's personality is as colorful as the lockerrom he presides over. He's one of the best known and well liked people in the NBA, and it's not just because he's an expert at his job. He's a man with a giant heart who annually goes above and beyond the call of duty by raising thousands of dollars for local charities with the Chopper Travaglini Annual Dinner, Dance, and Raffle.

His training skills are what everybody sees most but it's his savvy and "street smarts" that make him one of the top traveling secretaries in the business.

When you walk through this man's office you stroll through basketball history. Chopper is as proud of his four walls as the Hall of Fame is of its hundreds. On those four walls in the Nuggets' lockerroom are photos and memorabilia that keep viewers gazing for hours. Foremost in the collection is his autographed jersey from his good friend Julius Erving and his door which is signed by another good pal, Frank Sinatra.

Chopper has become somewhat of a celebrity in his own right. He helped launch Flex-all 454 on its meteoric rise to the top of the analgesic formula products market. The penetrating analgesic was originally produced by Ari-Med Pharmaceutical, Inc. but has since been bought by a bigger manufacturer and is currently a "hot" selling item on shelves all around the country.

A native of Penns Grove, N.J., Chopper served as trainer of the ABA's Virginia Squires for seven years before coming to Denver. While with Virginia, he was Julius Erving's first professional trainer.

ROB BABCOCK

Scouting Coordinator

The job of an NBA scouting coordinator is taxing on the homefront but crucial to the team who employs your services. Rob has provided the Nuggets with his expertise since October of 1987 and he's been evaluating amateur and professional talent for NBA teams for a total of eight years.

Since 1980, Babcock has scouted for five NBA teams, including the Detroit Pistons, Cleveland Cavs, San Diego Clippers, Indiana Pacers and the Nuggets.

Prior to joining the Nuggets full-time, Babcock was the head basketball coach at Phoenix College (Ariz.). While there his teams advanced to the ACCAC play-offs twice and was the region's runnerup in 1986.

Babcock began his basketball career as a player in Phoenix where he was a high school All-American his senior season. He then went to Grand Canyon College (Phoenix) where he helped his team to a second place finish in the 1974 NAIA Championships.

Babcock moved to Mexico City and began teaching at The American School Foundation and started a successful high school head coaching career. His teams won the American Schools of Mexico championships in 1978 and 1979, and the Private School Championships in 1978.

From Mexico City, Babcock went to Greenway H.S. in Phoenix in 1979 and was the assistant coach to brother Pete, who served as the Nuggets General Manager and was with the Nuggets from 1984 through 1989. Eventually, Rob wound up as the head basketball coach at Maryvale H.S. in Phoenix in 1980. While at Maryvale his teams reached the state play-offs in 1981, and in 1982 he was named the Southwest Valley Coach of the Year.

Babcock and his wife, Laura, have two sons, Nathan and Christopher.

POSITION: Guard
HEIGHT: 6-4 WEIGHT: 192
HIGH SCHOOL: West End H.S., Birmingham, AL
COLLEGE: Alabama '77
EXPERIENCE: 13 seasons
BIRTHDATE: February 1, 1955

HOW DUNN BECAME A NUGGET: Signed as an unrestricted free agent Nov. 6, 1989.

1989-90: After being away for a season, one of the most popular Nuggets returned when Denver placed Michael Cutright on the injured list 11/6...Played in 65 games with two starts... Averaged 10.1 minutes per game...Had 41 steals on the year and only 19 turnovers...Pulled a hamstring vs. Utah on 3/11 and was placed on the injured list for a minimum of five games... Completed his ninth season with the Nuggets, his 13th overall...Scored a season high 12 points at Golden State on 12/13.

PROFESSIONAL CAREER: A second-round draft pick of the Portland Trailblazers in the 1977 NBA Draft, has a reputation as one of the NBA's fiercest defenders...Played in 82 games for Denver in 87-88 where he committed just 26 turovers while snaring 101 steals and dishing 87 assists...Committed grand larceny at New Jersey on 1/6/88 as he had a career-high nine steals...Led all NBA guards in offensive rebounds for the 1982-83 season...Named to the NBA's All-Defensive team in 82-83 and 83-84...Had a consecutive game streak of 363 games broken in 1983 when he missed a pair with a sprained ankle.

COLLEGE CAREER: Never known as a scoring threat, he still managed to average 11.1 points per game for some excellent Alabama teams during his four years...Always a defensive ace, he led the Crimson Tide in steals, interceptions and recoveries during his four years.

MISCELLANEOUS: A soft-spoken family man off the court, he works with youngsters back home in Alabama during the off-season...Initials T.R. stand for Theodore Roosevelt...He and wife Cynthia have two children.

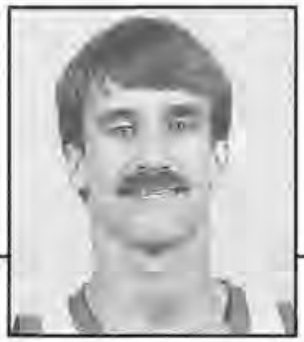
BILL HANZLIK



POSITION: Forward
HEIGHT: 6-7 WEIGHT: 200
HIGH SCHOOL: Beloit H.S., Beloit, Wisconsin
COLLEGE: Notre Dame '80
EXPERIENCE: 10 Seasons
BIRTHDATE: December 6, 1957

HOW HANZLIK BECAME A NUGGET: Acquired along with a first round draft choice from the Seattle Supersonics in exchange for David Thompson, June 17, 1982. Hanzlik was not included in the trade at first, but he was substituted for forward Wally Walker on July 20 when an arbitrator ruled Seattle could not trade Walker because he was a free agent.

1989-90: Renewed health made him a major contributor and defensive ace off the bench... Played in 81 games this season, tying him for the most on the club...Hit 6-8 field goals and scored 14 points vs. Houston 4/19, playing a major role in Denver's overtime win...One of the first players off Denver's bench, he played 19.8 minutes per game...Scored a season-high 19 1/13 vs. Phoenix...Still forced to match up against some of the biggest men in the NBA on defense, including Mark Eaton and Akeem Olajuwon... Entered the season completely healthy for the first time since 86-87...Played in all three of Denver's playoff games, was 10-10 from the free throw line.

PROFESSIONAL CAREER: Played eight of his ten NBA seasons in Denver and because of his longevity in Denver, is the team's 12th all-time leading scorer with 4,546 career points as a Nugget....A first round selection by Seattle in the 1980 draft, he was taken with the 20th pick overall...Only twice in ten seasons has averaged double figures in scoring...Averaged a career high 13.0 ppg in 1986-87 and at one time was ranked as high as 20th in the league in scoring that season, averaging 20.0 ppg... Never a great scorer, but is regarded as one of the best defensive players and most versatile players in the league...Has played all five positions since coming to the Nuggets in 1982 from Seattle...Has undergone two major back operations since the summer of 1987, most recently in November of 1988 to remove a ruptured disk...Named to the NBA's second team All-Defense after the 1985-86 season...Scored a career-high 33 points against Dallas on Nov. 14, 1986.

COLLEGE CAREER: Averaged just 7.5 points per game as a senior at Notre Dame and 5.9 points per game for his career, making him one of the lowest scoring first round picks ever...A starter both his junior and senior years, he was co-captain during his final season...Majored in mechanical engineering.

MISCELLANEOUS: Earned a spot on the 1980 U.S. Men's Olympic team which was part of the United States boycott of the 1980 Summer Olympics...His olympic squad played some NBA All-Star teams in the Gold Medal Games...He and wife Maribeth live in Denver and have four children.

DENVER NUGGETS 1989-90 PLAYOFF RESULTS

DENVER VS. SAN ANTONIO

The San Antonio Spurs, with the addition of David Robinson and a few other key players, set the NBA record for the best single season turnaround. In 1889-90, the Spurs finished 21-61 and in fifth place in the Midwest Division. In 1989-90, the Spurs went 56-26 and won the Midwest Division title. On the strength of three key road wins, the Nuggets secured the No. 7 seed in the Western Conference Playoffs and squared off with the Spurs in the first round. In Game One, San Antonio's starting front line of Robinson, Terry Cummings and Sean Elliot outscored Denver's Alex English, Jerome Lane and Joe Barry Carroll 60-22 and outrebounded them 27-7. The Spurs won easily, 119-103. The Nuggets gave a great effort in Game Two and were the aggressors for much of the game, but could not hit a key shot down the stretch. Denver actually led 99-96 in the fourth quarter, but the Spurs went on a 12-2 run to take the lead 108-101 and the Nuggets would never fully recover. San Antonio went up 2-0 with the 129-120 win. Back in Denver for Game Three, the Spurs looked to maul the Nuggets, taking a 65-53 lead at halftime. Denver refused to die and pulled within three points, 121-118, when Fat Lever hit a three-pointer with 1:27 left. The Spurs held off the Nuggets' charge and as was the case for many of Denver's losses during the season, the Nuggets could not hit a big shot late in a close game. The Spurs closed the book on Denver's 89-90 campaign with a 131-120 win.

MCNICHOLS SPORTS ARENA

In 1972, Denver area voters passed a $10 million bond to build a new indoor sports arena. With the cost of the building, land and parking areas, the total cost of the project came to $16 million. Architects Sink/Combs designed the arena with fan comfort as their number one concern and thus designed the seating with a sharper skyward angle to allow the audience to be closer to the action or event. Ground breaking took place in 1973, and just 2 years later, on August 22, 1975 McNichols Sports Arena opened. The first event was on that day with Lawrence Welk playing to a sold-out crowd of 19,000.

McNichols has been the home of five professional sports teams; the Nuggets of the ABA during the 1975-76 season and the NBA from 1976 to present, the Denver Spurs of the American Hockey League (1975-76), the Colorado Rockies of the NHL (Sept. 1976 - July 1982), the Colorado Flames of the International Hockey League (1982-84), the Denver Dynamite of the Arena Football League (1987, 89, 90), and the Denver Avalanche of the M.I.S.L. (1980-82). Seating capacity ranges from 16,500 for hockey, 17,022 for basketball, and up to 19,000 for concerts.

McNichols Sports Arena itself, excluding Mile High Stadium, is constructed on forty acres, has close in parking for 4,700 cars, and when added to the stadium parking of 3,000, total parking available for the complex is 7,700. Within the oval structure there are 10 million cubic feet, 300,000 of which is usable space.

Hosting an average of 140-150 events each year, McNichols has been the site of the NCAA Basketball Western Regional, and was the host for the 1990 NCAA Final Four. Other events held at the arena include ice shows, high school sporting events, religious events, boxing, professional wrestling, and circuses. McNichols was also the host of the first "Slam Dunk" contest during the ABA All-Star game in 1976. Average attendance pushes 1.3 million per year.

In 1987, a major $14 million remodeling and improvements project added many patron amenities, including four new restaurants. Other improvements included: a new Video Diamond Vision II, a closed circuit TV system throughout the arena, a wider concourse, a new arena sound system, private suites, improved concession stands and many other conveniences for patrons.

MEDIA INFORMATION

McNichols Sports Arena is located just off Interstate 25 at the 17th Avenue exit (going north) and the 19th Avenue exit (going south). The Arena's address is 1635 Clay Street, Denver, Colo., 80204. McNichols Sports Arena is approximately 15 minutes from the airport and approximately five minutes from the downtown Denver Metro area.

Media Credentials for all personnel will be handled by the Nuggets' Media Relations Department. Requests should be filed in advance to allow for processing and distribution. The Nuggets require 24 hours notice for all press credentials.

Press Seating is located in two areas at McNichols Sports Arena. Those members of the media who cover the Nuggets on a regular basis will be seated at courtside on the east side of the floor. We will also accommodate other personnel there when possible, but space is available on a very limited basis. Those we cannot seat at courtside we will accommodate in the upper press seating area on the east side.

Photographers credentials are the same as regular media passes. The endlines will be patrolled by security personnel each game to make sure everyone seated on the court is a working photographer. Passes for freelance photographers are available on a game-to-game basis only to photographers on a specific assignment and as space allows.

The Press Entrance is located at the Lower East Entrance of the Arena. Any passes or tickets will be left for media personnel at the Will Call Window which is adjacent to the entrance. Personnel with proper media credentials will be admitted through this entrance only.

The Working Press Room is located at court level on the east side of the Arena. The working press room is equipped with telephones for media use only. We must limit access to the working press room to working press. It is impossible to accommodate family, friends and guests.

The Press Food Room is located in the south tunnel of the Arena. Food and beverages will be available to members of the working media.

Statistical Services will include pre-game press notes, lineups and other pertinent statistical information. They will be available in the press room prior to the game. Programs are available on a limited basis. Play-by-play, quarter stats, halftime boxscores and final boxscores will be distributed to the press room and to each of the working press areas in the Arena. Postgame quotes will also be made available as soon as possible after the game.

Telecopier Service is available on request.

Interviews with players and coaches are possible up to 45 minutes prior to the game and following a 10-minute cooling off period after the game, as NBA regulations outline. Your cooperation is expected in maintaining a work atmosphere in the locker rooms at all times.

Parking Permits must be requested in advance. These are available on a limited basis because there are very few spaces.
